1. In April 1952, after the three-anti's and five-anti's campaigns, the Chinese Communist Party decided to re-assign a number of cadre members to work in industrial and mining enterprises to strengthen Party leadership in that sector of the economy and to increase production.
2. The Party Central Organization Department is compiling figures on the progress of this re-assignment program for its report on the occasion of the Party's 31st Anniversary.¹ Preliminary statistics, as of 28 June 1952, show that 6,360 cadre members had already been sent to industrial and mining enterprises as follows:

a. Provincial committee level	98
b. Regional ² committee level	540
c. Hsien committee level	1,902
d. Ch'u committee level	3,100
e. Students from Party cadre schools	720
